Dear Ms. Bibbs,

I am writing in response to your letter dated October 24, 2014, in which your office notified me of the opportunity to be notified of positions with the County that I may qualify for, as well as an opportunity to develop a re-employment plan, if applicable, despite my service-connected disability.

Please note that I am interested in pursuing these possibilities, as indicated on the attached re-employment interest form. However, I was unable to return the form by the requested deadline due to unforeseen circumstances.

In the last two months, I have endured the deaths of my best friend via suicide, my cousin, for whom I was a primary caregiver, and, most tragically, the death of my mother just a few weeks ago. I am still grieving these losses and trying to settle their affairs.

Although the deadline to return the form has passed, I am asking that I be afforded the opportunity to be considered for re-employment since extenuating circumstances caused the delay.

Please notify me by mail and/or phone of your decision, and I thank you in advance for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Kay Anderson
