DATE OF TREATMENT: 03/13/2012

Please see template for history and physical, review of systems and study results.

In brief, the patient is a 79-year-old female with history of hypertension, hyperlipidemia who presents to the ER complaining shortness of breath for the past month, has been slowly progressive, worsening, particularly over the past several days. Also complains of several weeks of lower extremity edema and some nasal congestion.

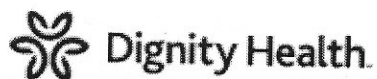

PHYSICAL EXAM: Shows benign vital signs. Patient is awake, alert in no acute distress with physical exam remarkable only for scattered wheezes and bibasilar rales on the pulmonary exam and 2+ pitting edema of both lower extremities bilaterally.

Chest x-ray is benign. EKG is normal sinus rhythm, rate 85 with nonspecific T-wave flattening. PACs are present. CBC shows a white count of 12.3. Chemistry shows sodium 127 and chloride of 88. INR is 1.7. Troponin is less than 0.05. MB is 5.1 and BNP is 114. The patient was given a 1 liter saline bolus, aspirin, albuterol and Atrovent here in the ER, and the patient states after the albuterol and Atrovent she feels back to baseline. At this point, considering the patient has had several weeks of symptoms, slowly progressive, but still has no pulmonary edema on her x-ray, but a benign EKG a white count of only 12.3, mild hyponatremia and hypochloremia with a chemistry otherwise benign, a negative troponin with a slightly elevated CK-MB of 5.1 and a BNP that is only slightly elevated at 114, I feel the patient is stable for discharge home. I feel that the patient does not have any acute CHF exacerbation. The patient is not having an MI. The patient does not have pneumonia or any other emergent etiology of these symptoms, I feel that this can be worked up by her primary care physician as an outpatient, due to the very indolent course and the only slight abnormality of her abnormal labs. Resting comfortably throughout ED stay. I recommend a azithromycin and HCTZ for the patient in the care home where she lives, and I have given her prescriptions for both of these as well and instructed her to follow up with her primary care physician in 1-2 days.

CLINICAL IMPRESSION:

1. Cough.
2. Dyspnea.
3. Peripheral edema.

Cough, Generic

There are many things that can cause a cough, and we are not certain what is causing your cough. Cough may be triggered by pollen, dust, animal dander, molds, certain foods, respiratory infections, exposure to smoke, exercise, or other things that cause allergic reactions or allergies (allergens).

Patient Education/Depart Summary

- Use prescription medications as ordered by your caregiver.
- Avoid pollen, dust, animal dander, molds, smoke, or anything that seems to cause coughing at home and at work.
- You may have fewer attacks if you decrease dust in your home. Electrostatic air cleaners may help.
- It may help to replace or cover your pillows or mattress with materials less likely to cause allergies.
- If you are not on fluid restriction, drink 8 to 10 glasses of water each day.
- Discuss possible exercise routines with your caregiver.
- If animal dander is the cause of your cough, you may need to get rid of pets.
- A cold steam vaporizer may help your cough.
- Avoid cold outside air if this causes coughing episodes.
- If you had x-rays today or laboratory work done, make sure you know how to get your results if they were not given to you today. Leave a telephone number with your caregiver where you can be reached and make sure you are available to receive the call.

SEEK MEDICAL CARE IF:

- You develop wheezing and/or shortness of breath.
- An oral temperature above 102° F (38.9° C) develops.
- You have muscle aches, chest pain, or thickening of mucus or phlegm (sputum).
- Your sputum changes from clear or white to yellow, green, gray, or bloody.
- You have any problems that may be related to the medicine you are taking (such as a rash, itching, swelling, or trouble breathing).

SEEK IMMEDIATE MEDICAL CARE IF:

- There is increased coughing and/or shortness of breath.
- You have increased difficulty breathing.
- Any of the problems you had are getting worse.
- You develop chest pain, nausea or vomiting or have pain in your chest that radiates into your arms, neck, jaw or teeth. CALL your local emergency services (911 in U.S.) Do not attempt to drive yourself for medical care.

MAKE SURE YOU:

- Understand these instructions.
- Will watch your condition.

Shortness of Breath (Dyspnea)

Shortness of breath (dyspnea) is the feeling of uneasy breathing. Shortness of breath does not always mean that there is a life threatening illness. Dyspnea needs care right away.

© SEIF & ASSOCIATES, INC., 2002

CAUSES

The list of causes for shortness of breath is very long and includes:

- Not enough oxygen in the air (as with high altitudes or with a smoke-filled room).
- Acute lung disease.
 - | Infections such as pneumonia.
 - | Fluid in the lungs, such as Heart Failure.
 - | Blood clot in the lungs (pulmonary embolism).
- Lasting (chronic) lung diseases.
- Heart Disease (heart attack, angina, congestive heart failure and others).

Patient Education/Depart Summary

- ⌞ Low red blood cells (anemia).
- ⌞ Poor physical fitness can cause shortness of breath with exercise.
- ⌞ Chest or back injuries or stiffness.
- ⌞ Being overweight (obese) can make it hard to breath.
- ⌞ Anxiety can make you feel like you are not getting enough air even though everything is all right.

DIAGNOSIS

Many tests may be done to find why you are having shortness of breath. Tests include:

- | | | |
|------------------------|----------------------|---------------------|
| ⌞ Chest x-rays. | ⌞ Blood tests. | ⌞ Exercise testing. |
| ⌞ Lung function tests. | ⌞ Electrocardiogram. | ⌞ A cardiac echo. |
| | | ⌞ Scans. |

Serious medical problems will usually be found during your exam.

Your caregiver may not be able to find a cause for your shortness of breath after looking at you. In this case, it is important to have a follow-up and exam with your caregiver after a period of time.

HOME CARE INSTRUCTIONS

- ⌞ Do not smoke. Smoking is a common cause of shortness of breath. Ask for help to stop smoking.
- ⌞ Avoid being around chemicals that may bother your breathing (paint fumes, dust, etc)
- ⌞ Rest as needed. Slowly begin your usual activities.
- ⌞ If medications were prescribed, take them as directed for the full length of time directed. This includes oxygen and any inhaled medications, if prescribed.
- ⌞ It is very important that you follow up with your caregiver or other physician as directed. Waiting to do so or failure to follow-up could result in worsening of your condition and possible disability or death.
- ⌞ Be sure you understand what to do or who to call if your shortness of breath worsens.

SEEK MEDICAL CARE IF:

- ⌞ Your condition does not improve in the time expected.
- ⌞ You have a hard time doing your normal activities even with rest.
- ⌞ You have any side effects from or problems with medications prescribed.
- ⌞ You develop any new symptoms not discussed below.

SEEK IMMEDIATE MEDICAL CARE IF:

- ⌞ You feel your shortness of breath is getting worse.

Peripheral Edema

You have swelling in your legs (peripheral edema). This swelling is due to excess accumulation of salt and water in your body. Edema may be a sign of heart, kidney or liver disease, or a side effect of a medication. It may also be due to problems in the leg veins. Elevating your legs and using special support stockings may be very helpful, if the cause of the swelling is due to poor venous circulation. Avoid long periods of standing, whatever the cause.

Treatment of edema depends on identifying the cause. Chips, pretzels, pickles and other salty foods should be avoided. Restricting salt in your diet is almost always needed. Water pills (diuretics) are often used to remove the excess salt and water from your body via urine. These medicines prevent the kidney from reabsorbing sodium. This increases urine flow.

Diuretic treatment may also result in lowering of potassium levels in your body. Potassium supplements may be needed if you have to use diuretics daily. Daily weights can help you keep track of your progress in clearing your edema. You should call your caregiver for follow up care as recommended.

SEEK IMMEDIATE MEDICAL CARE IF:

- There is markedly increased swelling, pain, redness or heat in your legs.
- You develop shortness of breath, especially when lying down.
- You develop chest or abdominal pain, weakness or fainting.
- You have an oral temperature above 102° F (38.9° C), not controlled by medicine.

CoagulationInterpretive Data

$1: INR

NOTE: The INR is to be used for the interpretation and evaluation of anticoagulated patients. The PT (Prothrombin Time) should be used for the evaluation of hemostatic disorders in non-anticoagulated patients.

Recommended INR Range	Clinical Situation
	Pre-operative anticoagulation
2.0 - 3.0	Hip surgery
1.5 - 2.5	Non-hip surgery
2.0 - 3.0	Prevention of: recurrent deep vein thrombosis (two or more episodes); primary and/or secondary deep vein thrombosis; systemic embolism in patients with atrial fibrillation, valvular heart disease, tissue heart valves
2.5 - 3.5	Prevention of: arterial thrombosis, including patients with mechanical heart valves

$2: PTT

Usual therapeutic range

Argatroban: 43 to 86 secs, (PTT ratio of 1.5-3.0)

Lepirudin, bivalirudin: PTT 43 to 71 (PTT ratio 1.5-2.5)

Chronic Kidney Disease Staging: The National Kidney Foundation criteria requires documentation of the GFR on two occasions at least 90 days apart. Stage 1 and 2 definitions require correlations with the presence of abnormal urine sediment or radiographic findings. Stages are not defined by the GFR alone.

- Stage 1: Kidney damage with normal or high GFR of 90 or greater
- Stage 2: Kidney damage with mild decrease in GFR of 60-89
- Stage 3: Kidney damage with moderate decrease in GFR 30-59
- Stage 4: Kidney damage with severe decrease in GFR 15-29
- Stage 5: Kidney damage with GFR Less than 15 or on dialysis

$4: B-Natriuretic Peptide

Please note: Effective 2/1/2012 BNP results have shifted -20% on the Beckman analyzers due to a calibration adjustment made by the manufacturer. This adjustment has been made to better correlate the laboratory BNP results to the POCT BNP results. POCT testing results are not affected.

$5: Troponin I (POCT)

Troponin I Screen Reference Range Interpretation:

0 - 0.049 ng/mL There is normal or no significant myocardial injury with this specimen.
If clinically indicated, serial determinations are recommended.

0.05 - 0.39 ng/mL Is consistent with minor myocardial injury.
≥0.4 ng/mL Is consistent with possible AMI.
