Dear Chet & Trudy:

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to voice my concerns regarding the mismanagement of John Stroh and apathy of the board members of San Joaquin County Mosquito & Vector Control District. Trudy's presence eased my fears. It was calming having a female present who could identify with some of the information I shared.

I did not expect the content of the sexual harassment would upset me as much as it did. Due to the extent of my anxiety over the subject matter we covered and how it affected me I was unable to address many issues in my initial complaint.

The allegations I neglected to communicate to you were: 1) the retaliation I experienced when performing in the field operations during my assignment in zone 18; 2) specific examples of compromised field practices from the newer employees under Bob Durham's supervision; 3) the family tree that exists in our hiring practices; and 4) misuse of special West Nile funding.

One very important piece of information I left out was the fact that Supervisor Ed Greenmeyer had gone to management to inform them of Bob Durham's sexual misconduct. This happened prior to my written complaint and I had no prior knowledge of this information until 2008.

Attached is the list of items requested at the end of our meeting.

I appreciate the opportunity given to me by you both. If you have any more questions, I would gladly return for a second interview to explain the content I was unable to address on Friday.

Thank you again.

Sincerely,
