

Journal

There was no rhyme or reason to why I journaled. My journaling is not consistent. I did not journal daily and the hard copies are hand written.

6-25-07 Set trap at Neugebauer property told Bob trap count. First he said "All trap counts are high. This is not a priority. Then he said tell the people who live there to move."

7-9-07 Trap count on Bacon Island is high. West Nile detected in mosquitoes. I spent day inspecting island. Found two new borrow pits. One has little to no access. Supervisor asked me to treat area with pesticide I have never used. I asked him to incorporate this area with air application scheduled on 7-10-07. He chose not to. I asked him to survey the sight that I felt it was unsafe and he needed a visual before assigning me to do any work here. This site is very close to trap. And I think a big potential to link with high trap count. Also during inspection I found breeding alfalfa fields. I treated what I could but too many ditches for effective time frame. When I brought this to Bob's attention he said what about all the ditches on Mandeville, Roberts, and McDonald islands. Forget it. Prioritize. I do not know what this means.

7:00 a.m. Locker room change. Janine states she will be moving to Stockton with her sons to live with a single couple who are close friends. This perplexes me and after avoiding the elephant of her and Bob I feel compelled to ask her "isn't she moving in with Bob and in the future going to marry him?" After a year of denying a relationship with Bob she admits yes Bob and her are close friends. But is no ones business. That only the people who need to know (I assume management) knows. End of the conversation. I felt we left on good terms.

Bob has been my supervisor since 1-07. Prior to today he has met with me in my zone one other time. Coming from the pressure of his supervisor. On this day Bob met out with me from 11:30 to 2:00p.m. We drove separate vehicles and covered a lot of mile.

3:10 p.m. When I returned to the office Janine was at the copy machine she said "I have one question regarding what you asked me about this morning" Seeing the emotion of anger in her face I asked her if she would like to go in private. All our coworkers were returning to end their days and people could over hear our conversation. As she was more aggressive with the copy machine, she told me she did not care to leave the room and we could discuss it in public. She asked me "why it was my business and why I wanted to know about her and Bob?" I told her that in the past she had lied to me 3 times prior and I wanted to hear the truth. She told me I shouldn't care. I told her "I am affected by their relationship." I then asked her if she wanted to stop this conversation that was heated and getting attention from other coworkers. Or did she want to go with me to talk to Eddie?" She told me "I will handle this my own way" I asked her how through Bob my supervisor? She stormed off towards the office.
