Family-Mary needs to be informed that she will remain at a skilled nursing facility for the remainder of her life. I believe she needs a chaplain someone who is unbiased. Mary's mental capacity has proven to be a danger to herself and she is non compliant. For over six months she refused to take her medication including her insulin. Mary's non compliance refusing to use her insulin and manage her diabetes which was her main health issue and due to her own neglect has resulted rapidly in her terminal condition. Upon her multiple discharges which at times were AMA Mary was released she stated she would comply. Every time it resulted in her firing the in home health care team that Dr Freund instructed her to follow. A RN, a physical therapist, a occupational therapist, social workers and case managers. She would tell them she was following all the rules and wouldn't. Out of concern for us both I would communicate her health concerns as a result of her non-compliance. Mary refused to follow any of her medical advice that was given to her by her physicians and as a result I felt that she was a hazard to her own over all well being and safety as well as mine.

Because of her actions it has created a tremendous hardship in every area of my life. It has caused an mental emotional and physical stress in my every day life.

Jimmy if you want to discuss Mary having dialysis because I care for Mary and her well being I would appreciate to be notified and included so I may attend because I have been the constant in Mary's life.

I was never offered any emotional or physical support while Mary and I cared for Shirley and brought her home on hospice. Mary was already diagnosed with dementia during this time and I was responsible for all the physical work during my third knee surgery recovery. I then emptied Shirley's home alone while Mary fell in the hospital being treated for MRSA contracted from her sister. Mary lost her full memory and spent two months at Delta while I prepared her room to bring her home and place her on hospice (2012) Mary and I both were exposed to MRSA and C-dif and I was not notified while I cleaned out Mary's home with living conditions that would be defined as a hoarders home. I have evidence of.

You better be straight with Mary Jimmy and tell her she is not coming home. Then you need to ensure you will be able to follow through with all of her treatments. If Mary's psyche evaluation determines her incompetent do you really think she's capable of making such a serious decision? Like kidney dialysis? Mary is not informed, has no ability to care for herself. Do you want her to be stored in a warehouse with no quality of life? Are you willing to commit to visiting her and caring for her needs until she is deceased?

People who have not been willing to step up when it was so clearly necessary should not undermine the endless efforts that I have invested. I am the only family member who has not abandoned Mary or neglected her. Before I moved in as her tenant because she had finical debts and needed the revenue, her neighbors cared for her and can witness my character. And her co worker was her durable power of attorney. Not family.

I asked you for help because I needed it. I never expected to be undermined or have my character questioned when no one has ever actively cared enough to do the hard things I have done.

Mary is staying on hospice. I too have concerns that we can discuss together with Mary, a social worker and her attorney. Do you want to know where Mary's money is Jimmy? What is your deal?

Hi Carolyn

I contacted Mary Jean's attorney to find out more concerning her health card directive and he told me that it was a very vague and did not express Mary's true wishes. Barbara and I went to visit Mary again today and she was doing very good and sitting in a wheel chair so we went out on the patio and talked about our concerns. In our meeting yesterday Tiffany said Mary did not want Kidney Dialysis which is why Hospice Care was there. I asked Mary if she had considered Kidney Dialysis for her condition. She said she wanted to investigate and find out more about it so we requested information for her to find out more about it. I also requested her medications and treatment prognosis and doctor's notes from Arbor, which we should have on Thursday. I feel she should be offered this option if it is in her best interest.

Sincerely

Jimmy
